FARMING IN VIRGINIA.—We select for illustration, from this class of successful farmers, two gentlemen, simply because they happen to be more widely known as intelligent, public-spirited and energetic business men than any Virginians of our acquaintance who have been largely engaged in farming during the present year. We allude to Colonel Sutherland, of Danville, and to Mr. James Thomas, of this city. Neither of these gentlemen are farmers by vocation, and both of them have managed their plantations, to a large extent, through agents, while they have, in the cities of their residence, been engaged in other occupations. They possess, we suspect, very little of that skill in agriculture which belongs to the class of Virginia farmers of which the lamented Rufin was a type; and yet these gentlemen, laboring under many disadvantages as fall to the lot of Virginia farmers, are exceedingly well satisfied with the results of their agricultural labors during the present year. They give the most encouraging accounts of the result of their labors, and the example of such men will, we hope, very properly incite thousands to embark with energy in agricultural pursuits. The success of these gentlemen, although it has been very great, was the result of a system neither mysterious nor unusual. It is within the power of almost every sensible man who owns a farm of ordinary fertility to accomplish nearly as much as Messrs. Sutherland and Thomas have done. There is in every part of Virginia a large margin for profit, at the present wages of labor, in the cultivation of wheat, corn, oats, tobacco and other crops peculiar to our climate and soil. — Richmond Times.

We think the cases cited are hardly a fair illustration. It is true that Messrs. Thomas and Sutherland are not farmers by vocation, but all their life long they have paid great attention to farming operations, and especially to the culture of tobacco. They had much more capital and credit than most others, and are well known to be two of the most clear-headed, sagacious and successful business men in the State. They might succeed where others would fail. Their example, however, is, in every sense, valuable, and we applaud the spirit with which they have exhibited themselves, and also attempted to infuse into others. — Richmond Examiner.

ENGLISH INTERESTS IN THE SOUTH.—English capital and English commercial interests have already, since the close of the war, secured the larger part of the carrying trade between our Southern States and European ports. The steamship line running between New Orleans and the commercial centres of England and France, are by no means the only evidences of this, though they are the most noticeable. Within a few weeks past, the cotton exports (this year's crop) have been moving direct to Europe in unusual volume. The signs of the times are that this English activity in the South, after obtaining control of the foreign commerce of that section, will be turned toward the establishment and control of manufactures there. We have heard recently of not a few ventures of English capital in the direction of cotton and other manufactures. There are some attractions toward South Carolina; but Georgia and Alabama are also reported by the agents of English houses to hold out specially inviting opportunities. The cotton tax, which has proved a heavy discouragement to cotton planting, acts as an inducement to cotton manufacturing in the South; for cotton escapes the tax together when manufactured; and in the collection district in which it is raised; and the difference of three cents a pound constitutes a serious item, one way or the other, in settling the price of goods per yard.

We are glad to hear of the investment of English capital in Southern manufactures of this and other kinds. It will aid in developing the resources of the South, improving its condition, and encouraging its people; and it enriches the investors and managers, we can certainly find no fault. We think, moreover, that the enterprising people of the North would direct their attention somewhat to these practical enterprises in the South, instead of occupying themselves entirely with its small political affairs, they would do a wise thing, and a thing beneficial to all parties, and of special importance to our future interests in our own country. — New York Times.

MASONRY IN THE SOUTH.—A correspondent from one of our Southern States, writes as follows: "The South is the Masonic 'Babel' of our land, for from every hamlet, village and city comes the cry 'more light,' and there is scarcely a home or fire-side that feels not the genial influence of the O. E. D., or that numbers Masonry among its household gods. Richmond, poor, learned and unlearned, meet on that common level, and the hand of Masonic charity is often extended to assist the falling brother. On the Masonic level we all, Federal and Confederate, without regard to political distinctions, meet and work; and on the points of fellowship the blue and the grey are intermingled in fraternal embraces as though they never had been joined in death struggles. What a commentary on the notion of Masonry! What wonder that the Order grows. In my humble opinion, the future relation of the two sections depends more upon our Order than on almost any thing else; because on that level we meet without mutual distrust, free from the guile of politicians, and there we find out the good qualities of each other. We prove our charity, our humanity, and our truth. I think of this often, and always with faith and hope."

COURT NOTICES.

COMMISSIONER'S NOTICE.

In the Circuit Court of Alexandria county, the Alexandria and Washington Railroad Company, by James S. French, President, complainants, vs. the Washington, Alexandria and Georgetown Railroad Company, Alexander Hay, J. B. Stewart, Benjamin Thompson, Joseph Thornton, Joseph Davidson, the Mayor, Board of Aldermen, the Board of Common Council, of the city of Washington, Joseph H. Bradley, Jr., A. Thomas Bradley, Walter Lenox, and William H. Fowle and Edward Snowden, late partners, under the style and firm of Fowle, Snowden & Co., defendants.
This cause came on to be heard this 6th day of December, 1886, upon the oaths, answers, exhibits and other papers upon consideration whereof, and the arguments of counsel being heard, the Court with its decision upon any question or principle in the case, of its own motion, doth adjudge, order and decree that one of the Master Commissioners of this Court do state, settle and report an account showing:

1st. The amount of the liabilities of every kind existing against the Alexandria and Washington Railroad Company, on the 10th day of April, 1892.
2d. The amount of liabilities or indebtedness of the said Railroad Company aforesaid, or discharged by Alexander Hay, by the Washington, Alexandria and Georgetown Railroad Company, or other person since said period.
3d. The amount of money expended or debts incurred during said period by Alexander Hay, by the Washington, Alexandria and Georgetown Railroad Company, or other person, in building, equipping and operating the said Railroad.
4th. The amounts received during the period aforesaid, by the Washington, Alexandria and Georgetown Railroad Company, from all sources, and stating any further matter that said Commissioner may deem pertinent, or that either party may require, and that the books and papers of the Washington and Alexandria Railroad Company, and of the Washington, Alexandria and Georgetown Railroad Company shall be produced before the Commissioner taking such accounts by any person having possession of the same. And that said Commissioner shall make his report to the next term (general or special) of this Court.
But before taking such account the said Commissioner shall give notice of the time and place of taking the same by publication, in some convenient newspaper, once a week for four weeks successively, which publication shall be equivalent to personal service of notice on the parties.

ARNOLD & FIELD, MERCHANT TAILORS.
Have removed from No. 69 to No. 84, King street, and resumed their old business, where they would be pleased to receive a call from their friends, or any one in want of a suit of good clothes. We have on hand and are receiving a good line of CLOTHS, CASSIMERES, VESTINGS, LINENS, &c., which we will make to order, very low, for the next two months, especially. We propose to continue our GENTS' FURNISHING DEPARTMENT, where you will always find the latest styles. We will furnish WHITE SHIRTS, as cheap as they can be had at retail in Philadelphia. Warranted to fit and wear well. Call and see us at No. 84, King st., 3 doors west of Royal. aug 1-1f
